PIANOS. Pianos:

THE opposition which new inventions meet with from parties who are interested in the sale of articles in the same line-articles which have been popular and the sale of which has been profitable—is oftentimes shown with a bitterness which over-reaches itself and proves entirely abortive. Perhaps no opposition of this kind has ever shown itself so radically as to connected with the introduction of the Mathushek Plano. This be untiful instrument came before the public with a decided improvement on the style which had been in vogue so long, and which is still persistently adhered to by so many. This improvement marked a great change, and promised an immense benefit in the construction of Panos. If it were to prove a success, would not all dealers in Planos of other construction gradually find their business slipping away from them? The question was sufficiently alarming to rouse the spirit of opposition to the Mathushek to the highest plich. There was a concerted move on the part of the makers of the old style of Planos and their agents, the dealers, to put down this wanton innevation of all previously known laws in Plano building. Arguments were not used, comparisons and tests were not demanded—nothing was sought to be proven; but groups and libers and riddenle and spectros were all previously known laws in Plane building. Arguments were not used, comparisons and tests were not demanded—nothing was sought to be proven; but groans and libes and ridicule and sneering were resorted to, and incorrect statements, without number. Yet the Mathushek unostentationsly and quietly held its own, and advanced in favor with the imparish and discriminating talent of the country; and, although the howls of the opposition are deeper, and the ridicule more active, the more the Mathushek advances in favor with the public, still it is getting to be so apparent that the opposition is based altogether on interest, and not on reason, that it is rapidly losing its effect. The supporters of the Mathushek meanwhile, confident of an honest verdict in its favor, can afford to be amused with the bitterness of the opposition, knowing as they do so well, that it completely over-reaches itself, and returns to plague the inventor, benefitting the cause that it opposes, rather than its own. MERRIMAN & WILL-COX, 280 Second street, have the agency for the sale this desirable instrument; also, for the sale of the Burdett Organ, so popular for pariors, lodges and Sunday-schools. Their moito is "perfect satisfaction, or no sale."

SEWING-MACHINES. THE NEW DOMESTIC" SEWING-MACHINE

WHAT IT IS.

I T is the most powerful and durable, the lightestrunning, and most silent Sewing-Machine made.
POWER.—The application of torce directly over the needle insures ample power and enables it to ge through the heaviest work with ease.

DURABILITY.—all the working parts are thoroughly hardened, and so adjusted that lost motion can be readily taken up. power.
It has an automatic Tension, which being self-regulating, does away with what in other machines is a fruitful source of annoyance and trouble.
There being no cogs to rattle, and no cams to rub and grind, it does its work without noise.
Its action is so light and easy that it can be run by a fine cotton thread in place of the ordinary leather band. a fine cotton thread in place of the ordinary leather band.

Specially recommended by the medical faculty on account of its light-running qualities,
"Why! how easy it runs?" is the invariable expression of those who operate it for the first time.

It is made and finished one hundred per cent. better than any other Sewing Machine in the market. Its working parts are finished equal to the works of a fine watch. Mechanics and those who are familiar with machinery, are invited to call and examine it.
